GUN VIOLENCE PREVENTION BILL MOVES TO GOVERNOR

On Friday, August 29th, JCI successfully placed an op-ed in the Sacramento Bee, Fresno Bee, SLO Tribune, Modesto Bee, and Merced Sun-Star. The piece highlighted AB 1363 (Wyland's Law), Christy's story, and the urgent need to fix gaps in the protective order system. Thanks in part to this media push and advocacy, AB 1363 cleared its toughest hurdle with a 7-0 vote, even under heavy budget scrutiny.

Opinion: As D.C. retreats, California must lead on affordable clean energy

Three pending bills in state Legislature pose to lower utility costs, stabilize demand and invest in renewables

JCI is taking the lead in advocating for clean energy initiatives, supporting Deploy Action, Policy Pulse, and more.

Most recently, JCI is spearheading the launch of Deploy Action, a group of California-based industry leaders that champions smart, equitable energy reforms that prioritize grid reliability, regional coordination, and consumer affordability. JCI successfully placed an Op-Ed in The Mercury News that features CA Sen. Josh

Building on these exciting successes, JCI's focus now turns to moving AB 1363 to the Governor's desk and advancing Wyland's Law Part 2 to close remaining gaps. The op-ed was a collaborative effort by JCI, Christy Camara, Ethan Murray, Joe Alioto, partners at GIFFORDS, Brady United, Everytown, and CA Partnership to End Domestic Violence. We also thank our legislative champions including Senators Ashby, Rubio, Wiener, Hurtado, Blakespear, Becker, and Assemblymembers Petrie-Norris, Rubio, and Wicks for their strong support.

In this powerful episode, hosts Georgia Lewis and Simi Situ sit down with Christy Camara for a deeply personal conversation about motherhood, loss, and the fight to prevent gun violence. Christy opens up about how her role as a mother has transformed, the process of writing her book Can I Still Be Funny After My Son's Murder?, and how she finds strength and healing amidst unimaginable grief.

Becker and Deploy Action Advisor Jigar Shah on the state of clean energy and several important bills. This work was key to advancing SB 541 to the governor's desk and sustaining momentum for California's broader clean energy package.

JCI also supports Policy Pulse, an AI software that tracks CPUC, CEC, filings, and legislation, by driving its launch, media coverage, and subscriber growth. JCI also partnered with the Milken Institute to advance energy infrastructure in Southern California and host the Accelerating Clean Energy Infrastructure conference, uniting leaders nationwide to address clean energy needs.

JCI IS GOING TO CLIMATE WEEK NYC! September 21-25

JCI anticipates a series of forward-thinking conversations at Climate Week, and we are excited to work with old and new connections to accelerate the critical deployment of clean energy across the U.S. Contact lindsay@jcipr.com if you're interested in talking climate policy and mingling with us at one of the events next week in New York.

CONFLICT AND RESISTANCE BETWEEN MEXICAN AMERICANS AND SERVICEMEMBERS IN LOS ANGELES, 1943 TO TODAY

JCI team member Ava Sanchez shares her thoughts in our newest JCI Visions blog post. From the Zoot Suit Riots of 1943 to the ICE raids of 2025, Los Angeles has long been a site of tension between servicemembers and Mexican American communities. Most recently, the Supreme Court’s latest decision clears the way for racial profiling during immigration raids. Read more blog pieces on JCI Visions to explore how fashion, culture, media, and protest reveal repeating cycles of racialized violence and community resistance in LA’s history.
